Seam Guide Instructions:

Remove the acetate covering the back side of the guide, (Save the acetate to use for re-covering the sticky side after use). Place the guide where you want your seam allowance measurement to be, with the beveled end of the guide away from you, (Label side goes up when sewing.) Then Sew. To take the guide up, lift on the beveled end. If the guide does not come up easy enough, put a bit of water around the beveled end and let it sit for a few minutes and try again.

To clean the guide after it gets to 'linty', wash in the kitchen sink with warm soapy water and gently rub the lint away. Let it air dry and it is ready to use over again.

Simply drop the machine's needle into the desired seam width hole and square up your Ideal Seam Guide.
